Our Children

Vanessa McClintock

INTRODUCTION AND OPENING NARRATION

PORTRAITS THREE

is the third of four works commissioned by the Sacramento Metropolitan Arts Commission (SMAC) in the late 1980s and early 1990s. Each is a musical portrait of various aspects of the greater Sacramento (California, USA) area. Some are about people, some about events, some of places, of things, and of ideas.

Although the PORTRAITS collection is about the Sacramento area, the music is universal. We do not have to live in Kiev to understand or visualize its “great gate,” nor in Norway to experience the breadth of its magnanimous fjords: the music universally can stand by itself.

The theme for PORTRAITS 3 is the children of Sacramento’s rich and diverse multi-cultural history and heritage. Children and adults both will find the music rewarding and are encouraged to attend.

Introduction by Narrator

Sacramento is the home of and to many people, from many lands. People have been moving here for many years, starting families and new lives. And just like a family, our city is growing—and growing fast.

The orchestra that is about to play PORTRAITS 3 is also like a city of different families. There are many different sizes and kinds of instruments in the orchestra, and each helps the other. There are families of woodwinds: flutes, oboes, clarinets, and bassoons; brass: French horns, trumpets, trombones, and tuba; percussion: drums and many different kinds of fascinating things; and strings, starting with the big double bass, and growing smaller through the cellos, then violas, and finally the little, but powerful, violins.

Each one different, together they make something new, a whole greater than its parts.

The music you are about to hear, PORTRAITS 3, is the third piece composer Vanessa McClintock has written about our wonderful family called Sacramento. In this new piece Miss McClintock has written music about some children who lived many years ago, and about some who are living today.

Like a family, this music is made up of many parts, each one telling a different story. Each part is a musical "portrait" (or picture) of a child. These children are not likely to be found in history books, and probably are known only to friends and family. These children are not very different than any of us and, like us, each has their own unique story.

After the musical introduction for PORTRAITS 3, I will introduce each "portrait" before it is played. So, hear now, Vanessa McClintock's PORTRAITS 3. Hear now, musical pictures of children like ourselves.

THE WHITE BABY CRIES

The White Baby Cries

James Gregson was born in England in 1822 and came to America with his parents. As a boy, he was "bound" (a polite way of saying sold) to a blacksmith who taught the boy his trade. When he grew up, he married Eliza Marshall, who had come from England when a child. Together they came to work at Sutter's Fort. While there, Eliza gave birth to a baby girl who was named Ann Elizabeth. She was the first white baby to be born at Sutter's Fort. Native Americans came from as far away as Coloma to see her. They did not believe she was real until they pinched her to make her cry. Ann Elizabeth married when she was 16 years old. She and her husband had 14 children, and she lived to be 79 years old.

TryCycle

Little Bobby Roark decided one day that he wanted to visit San Francisco, so one day he got on his tricycle and followed the sign his parents had once showed him. Bobby didn't know how far away San Francisco was from Sacramento, or that he probably wouldn't make the trip in a few hours. And Bobby didn't know about the big bullies who were 7 years old and liked to beat up on little 3-year-olds on their way to San Francisco. Bob Roark later became a musician and played with the famous Dick Jurgens orchestra, and sold insurance in Whittier, CA. See if you can hear Bobby on his tricycle traveling toward San Francisco, the bullies who beat him up, and Bobby's fast return to the safety of his own home.

The Waxed Box

May Woolsey died in 1879 when she was a young girl. In those days it was the custom to pack the most favoured and treasured belongings of the deceased in a box, or trunk, and seal it with wax to protect the things inside. One hundred years later the box was found and opened with respect and reverence for the little girl. Inside were found May’s favourite toys and things, such as a vase, marbles, dolls, bracelets, red stockings, schoolbooks, and party invitations. Perhaps you will hear the school bell, nursery rhyme, thoughts about the party, and even May's own sweet spirit.

[illegible]

The Faith of a Child

How much faith do children have in their family? Think of the faith immigrant children had in their family to bring them to this country for safety and a future. Think of their faith when a knee is scraped and assurance is sought, or the first day of school, or visiting the doctor, or standing on a simple stool. Are we not all little children? Have we who are but older lost this faith, or can we regain those feelings when faith was the rule? Let us all learn of and from each other and enjoy our differences with the wondrous hope, love, and faith of a child.

Finale

[play Finale: speak closing remarks over beginning of Finale:]

Thank you for coming. May we all dwell on the positive and good things in our past, and on hope. Let us uplift our own lives and those in our world. And remember, however great or small, we are each a part of history.
